Doyt L. Perry Field

This is the seventeenth year that the Falcons have played their football games in Doyt L. Perry Stadium. Built in 1966 for approximately $2.8 million, it now has a seating capacity of 30,000 with the addition of the seats in the end zone over the past summer.

The field is named in honor of the man who coached the Falcons to a 77-10-5 record from 1955-64. Perry remained as Bowling Green's athletic director for six years after stepping down as football coach. Now retired, Perry is still a nine month resident of Bowling Green, and is one of the Falcons' staunchest boosters.

The east side of the stadium includes dressing rooms, the equipment and training rooms, and most of the athletic department offices. On the west side are the maintenance area, storage rooms, handball courts, the track offices, the Falcon Club office and the Falcon Clubhouse. Sitting atop the press box on the west side is the Stadium Club. Now in its third year of operation, the Stadium Club has 106 theatre-type seats, and is one of the finest facilities of its kind in the midwest.

Bowling Green won the first game ever played in Perry Field, blanking Dayton, 13-0, on October 1, 1966. Coming into this season, the Falcons have a 44-33-2 record in games played here.

• HOME OF THE FIGHTING FALCONS •

By Allan Chamberlin

A year ago as the Falcon football team prepared for its Mid-American Conference opener against Ohio University, the theme of the week was, "We OU." Last year's senior class had never defeated the Bobcats, having been upset by OU in 1978, embarrassed by the Bobcats in 1979 and fallen victim to a second half OU rally in 1980.

Unfortunately for Bowling Green, 1981 was no different as the Bobcats emerged from a wild finish with a 23-21 victory over the Falcons at Peden Stadium.

So, as the Falcons look toward today's season opener, their feeling has been that, "We still OU." The Falcons have not beaten the Bobcats since 1977, and now trail in the series, 17-16-1.

Last year's loss to OU put the Falcons in an early hole in the MAC race. OU's 21-20 win here two years ago on the final day of the season cost the Falcons a first division finish. The Falcons up-and-down 1979 season ended in a deep valley when the Bobcats pounded them, 48-21. The Falcon seniors remember those three games well.

Last season's game was particularly memorable. OU broke a 14-14 tie with just 2:04 left in the game on a 60 yard scoring pass from Sammy Shon to Bobby Henton. Miraculously, BG came back on a 60 yard TD pass of its own from Dayne Palsgrove to Shawn Potts with 42 seconds left. A two-point conversion pass from Greg Taylor to Mark Dowdell gave the Falcons a 21-20 lead. With 13 seconds left, OU was still at midfield, but a pass interference call on the BG nine yardline and a 26 yard field goal by Ron Harter with two seconds left dealt the Falcons a crushing defeat.

Subsequent losses to Michigan State and Western Michigan, and a tie with Miami left BG winless after five games. The Falcons rallied to win five straight games before dropping a 6-3 decision to Central Michigan in the season finale to wind up 5-5-1 overall, and in fourth place in the MAC with a 5-3-1 league record.

Avoiding a slow start like last year is what makes today's game so critical for the Falcons. For that matter, today's game was not scheduled until late last spring.

Originally, BG was to open next Saturday with North Carolina.

Falcons Still Say "We OU"

However, UNC wanted to switch its game with Pittsburgh to September 9 for a national television audience, so the BGSU-UNC game was moved back to Thanksgiving Day. To avoid opening one or two weeks later than everybody else in the MAC, the Falcons asked OU to switch from September 25 to today.

The Falcons climbed from seventh in the MAC in 1980 to fourth last year and were picked to finish second this season in the annual pre-season MAC Media Association poll. Conversely, OU was fourth in the league in 1980, tied for fifth last year, and picked ninth in the pre-season poll this season.

Yet, the Bobcats are still a dangerous team. Fourth year coach Brian Burke has some large holes to fill with the loss of All MAC quarterback Sammy Shon, leading rusher Todd Yoho, leading receivers Shawn Silcott and Mark Green and defensive standouts Greg Byrne and Frank Komar. However, the Bobcats return most of the offensive line, have more speed at the skill positions on offense and return seven starters on defense.

Key players to watch for OU are wide receivers Eddie Washington and Sherman McBride, linebacker Mike Mangen, who led OU in tackles as a freshman last year, and Harter. One position that has presented Burke with a problem is replacing Shon at quarterback. Juniors Donny Harrison and John Beck and freshman Dennis Swearingen could also see action there today.

The Falcons have also had several positions that were not resolved heading into the final week of pre-season practice. Senior Jim Schumann and junior Ray Rockwell are battling for the starting center job, and there is a five-way battle between senior Andre Young, juniors Stu Tolle, Andy Stark and Joe Prchlik and freshman Mike Foor for the three starting positions in the middle of the defensive line. Newcomers to the starting line up are sophomores Kevin Talley and Shawn Simms in the secondary. Starting in new positions are guard Brian Johnson, linebacker Mark Emans and defensive end Don Gregoire.

Among the freshmen who have been most impressive in fall camp and are most likely to see action today are wide receiver Stan Hunter, quarterback Brian McClure, fullback George Schmelzle, Foor, linebacker Vince Villanucci and kick returners Andre Jackson and Melvin Marshall.

Head Coach Denny Stolz

As he enters his sixth season at Bowling Green, former Big 10 Coach of the Year Denny Stolz feels his program has turned the corner and that Bowling Green is headed back toward the top of the Mid-American Conference. Last season, the Falcons won five games in a row late in the season to climb to fourth place in the MAC, BG's best finish since 1975.

Stolz brings a 22-33-1 record into the 1982 season. Overall, he has a 75-62-1 record in 14 years of collegiate coaching at Alma College, Michigan State and Bowling Green. He rejuvenated the football programs at Alma College and Michigan State by producing unbeaten seasons at Alma in 1967 and 1968, and the best record in eight years at Michigan State in 1974 when he led the Spartans to 7-3-1 record in his second year there.

A native of Lansing, MI, Stolz grew up in Mason, MI, and like his three brothers, worked his way through Alma College to earn a bachelor's degree in 1955. He played quarterback for the Scots, and upon graduation became head football coach at Haslett (MI) High School, where he was 40-13-3 in nine years for a winning percentage of .732. Stolz then spent one year as defensive coordinator at Lansing Eastern High School before being named head coach at Alma prior to the 1965 season.

Taking over a program that had produced only three wins in four years, Stolz soon led his alma mater to 8-0 records for two consecutive years, and was named Michigan Coach of the Year in 1967. By the time he left Alma in 1971, Stolz had compiled a 34-16 record and led the school to two outright Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association Championships, and one co-championship.

His next stop was Michigan State, where Stolz served for two years as defensive coordinator for Duffy Daugherty before being named the Spartans head coach in 1973. Again, Stolz turned around a foundering program. Within two years, Michigan State had climbed to 7-3-1 overall and 6-1-1 in the Big 10 for its best finish since the 1966 team went unbeaten. The Spartans finished twelfth in the Associated Press poll and eighteenth in the United Press International rankings, and Stolz was named Big 10 Coach of the Year. The highlight of the season was a 16-13 upset of number one ranked Ohio State.

Michigan State finished 7-4 in the next year, beating Notre Dame 10-3 at South Bend. Stolz resigned from Michigan State in March, 1976, with a 19-13-1 record, the only winning record in the Big 10 outside of Ohio State or Michigan during the preceding three years.

"The two most memorable games of my career have to be, first and foremost, the win over Ohio State," Stolz says. "ABC still considers it one of the top 10 games ever telecast. The second one would be the win over Notre Dame, especially since the game was played at Notre Dame."

Stolz is the district chairman of the American Football Coaches Association All-America Selection Committee. He heads the District 5 committee that also includes Earle Bruce of Ohio State and Hayden Fry of Iowa. Stolz is also a member of the United Press International Board of Coaches that ranks the Top 20 in the nation during the season. Stolz is also on the selection committee for the Lombardi Award which is presented annually to College Football's Most Outstanding Lineman.

While at Michigan State, Stolz coached the North to a victory in the All-American Bowl at Tampa, FL. He has lectured across the nation at football clinics, and on December 15, 1976, became the 12th head coach in the 63-year history of Bowling Green State University football.

Born September 12, 1934, Denny and his wife, Cena, have a son, Doak, 22, and two daughters, Dawn, 21, and Denise, 15.

Jefferson Award To Go To MAC's Top Player

The Downtown Athletic Club of Toledo has created The Jefferson Trophy which will be awarded annually to the most outstanding player in the Mid-American Conference. The first awards dinner will be held December 2, 1982, in Jefferson Square in Toledo at the Downtown Athletic Club facility. Former Pittsburgh Steeler standout Rocky Bleier will present the award to the 1982 recipient.

Each of the 10 Mid-American Conference head coaches and two local news media people will select the winner of the award. Each school will nominate one player for the award, and all 10 players will be honored at the banquet. From the proceeds of the banquet, awards will be presented to the college and player along with a scholarship fund to the winning player's university.

Because of the fact that Toledo is known as the "Glass Capital of the World," the Athletic Club obtained the assistance of a glass sculpturer to help in the development of a unique glass design for the awards presentation.

Tickets for the awards banquet can be purchased by contacting Bill Buehrer at the Downtown Athletic Club at 255-8748.

Bowling Green State University

In the fall of 1970, Dr. Hollis A. Moore, the newly-selected president, unveiled his plans for a "decade of distinction" at Bowling Green State University. He talked about a decade of physical and academic growth. He foresaw a decade of faculty dedication to teaching and research. And he began making plans to build upon the strengths of the University and to offer programs and services which would be international in scope.

Now 12 years later, Dr. Moore has passed away, but many of his visions have become reality.

A building program resulted in the renovation of numerous older structures and the construction of several new ones. Among the most impressive of the University's more than 100 buildings are the Student Recreation Center, which was completed in 1979, and the Moore Musical Arts Center, also built in 1979 and named after Dr. Moore and his wife.

The newest building project is a $7.2 million Physical Sciences Laboratory which will house the physics, astronomy and chemistry departments, and include a 120-seat planetarium. Ground was broken for the building last spring with a scheduled completion of the fall of 1983.

The academic programs at the University were also renovated and expanded. Three new colleges were developed during the 1970s. The College of Health and Community Services was started in 1973 to help meet the health care needs of a growing north-west Ohio. The School of Music was expanded into the College of Musical Arts, and the Graduate School became the Graduate College.

These new colleges joined the colleges of Education, Business Administration, Arts and Sciences, and the Firelands College to offer the University's more than 16,000 undergraduate and graduate students nearly 250 degree programs.

And the students are as diverse as the coursework. They come from 85 of Ohio's 88 counties, all fifty states and more than 45 foreign countries. They bring to the University diverse backgrounds and ideas, and they help create an exciting atmosphere for intellectual and cultural exchange.

This exchange is encouraged and directed by the more than 750 full-time faculty members. These men and women are experts in their fields of study, and many are on the cutting edge of scientific research and discovery. During the past few years, faculty members have annually received more than $1 million from outside agencies and foundations to conduct research. This research is exploring many of the pressing political, economic and environmental concerns of our times. For example, faculty are now studying insect chromosomes in the hopes of finding a cure for cancer in humans, the effects of air pollution and acid rain on crops, the changing texture of the American family, and the growing rate of juvenile delinquency.

The hub for this intellectual activity is the University's nine-story Library. The Library houses a collection of more than 650,000 volumes, 335,000 government documents, more than a million microfilms, and 5,000 periodicals. The Library is also the home of an impressive music collection of more than 175,000 recordings and audiotapes.

Non-traditional students have also been of concern to the University. Regional and campus centers for students returning to school, or for persons holding a full-time job while pursuing a degree, were established and supported.

The University has also become a center for entertainment and cultural programming. Internationally-known performers regularly visit the campus, and the University's music, theater, art and other programs offer an almost continuous schedule of programs.

Now, as Bowling Green begins planning for its 75th anniversary celebration in 1985, the University is facing several serious problems — inflation, potential decreases in state and federal support, and the possibility of declining enrollments. But the University will face these problems from a position of strength, having developed vital and exciting programs which are administered by people who have a dedication to learning and excellence.

Stolz Views Past, Present & Future

by Allan Chamberlin

There are a few more creases on his forehead and a few less hairs underneath his cap, but Denny Stolz remains the confirmed optimist that he was when he came to Bowling Green in 1977. The success, or lack of success, of Stolz' first five teams at Bowling Green has not pleased the old alums or the loyal fans in the area. It has not pleased Stolz, either. However, as he prepares to embark on his sixth season at Bowling Green, Stolz feels this program has turned the corner, and that the sixth season will be more successful than any of the first five.

"I really like this team," Stolz said in an interview in his office last week. "I feel very confident with this club. I feel we have a chance to win the conference championship. We are going to have to win some games on the road, and do some things we haven't done like beating Ohio University, Central Michigan and Miami, but from top to bottom, this is the most skilled team we have had at Bowling Green."

Stolz knows how important these early games are. "We have a chance to get some momentum because of the schedule change," he says. "We are not faced with playing at Iowa State, Kentucky, Baylor, Michigan State or North Carolina right at the beginning. Those games can help your recruiting, but they take a lot out of a team."

Indeed, the Falcons have an unusual schedule in that they play all nine of their Mid-American Conference games before taking on Long Beach and North Carolina in non-conference action in late November.

The early games will give a good indication of how much improved the Falcons are. Bowling Green has not had a winning season in Stolz' first five years, but the Falcons are 5-0 against Kent State, 4-1 against Toledo, 3-2 against Western Michigan, 3-2 against Eastern Michigan, 2-2 against Ball State and 1-0 against Northern Illinois. Unfortunately, they have a combined record of 1-13-1 against OU, Central Michigan and Miami with the one victory coming against OU's Bobcats in 1977.

Stolz feels the mental outlook of this year's team will be responsible for an improved record. "This team has a high opinion of itself," he says. "The players work well together. It is a very easy team to coach. Of course, we can't afford to run into a major injury situation, but I really feel we will be in this thing all the way."

Stolz is not at all reluctant to retrace the development of his program at Bowling Green, and what went wrong in the early years. "The first wall we ran into was that we had a super senior class in our first year here with guys like Mark Miller and Doug Smith (five members of that class have played pro football), but the talent level fell off drastically in the other classes.

"We had some outstanding individuals like Mike Wright and Jeff Groth, but did not have the talent from top to bottom that you need to win in this conference. I think that is evident in some of the scores that first year." In 1977, Bowling Green scored 21 or more points against Iowa State, Central Michigan, Tennessee-Chatanooga, Hawaii and Long Beach, yet lost all five of those games.

"Our next roadblock was that anytime you have a coaching change, it takes time to recover in recruiting," Stolz says. "We had a brand new staff and organization, and we made some mistakes. It takes time to set up an organization. I think that is the single biggest key, and our organization is obviously paying off now with the success we have had recruiting the last few years."

In his first three years at Bowling Green, Stolz had a lot of turnover on his staff. None of the present assistant coaches came with Stolz in 1977, but the present staff has now been intact for two years. "This is the best staff we have had at Bowling Green," Stolz says. "They combine great ability in coaching, recruiting, working with kids and public relations. This staff is capable of coaching anywhere in the country. That's not true of some of our earlier ones."

Stolz does not like to make excuses, but he does offer a defense for the 1980 season, and to a degree, the 1981 season. "In defense of those years, we suffered through a horrendous string of losses by one or two points," Stolz says. "That 1980 season when we lost six games by four points or less was difficult to handle, then last year we turn around and lose to OU by two points in the last second in the second game of the year, and lose by three points at Michigan State the next week.

"Those were good football teams in 1980 and 1981. Had we won a majority of those games that we lost by one or two points, this whole thing would have turned around earlier."

Al McGuire, the former basketball coach at Marquette and now a television commentator lists scheduling as the most important factor in the success of a team. He says scheduling ranks ahead of recruiting and coaching. That opinion is disputable, but certainly scheduling plays a major role, and that applies to football as well as basketball.

In Stolz' first five years at Bowling Green, the Falcons have played 14 of their 16 non-conference games against Division I-A opponents, and most of them against teams with 95 scholarships (BG has just 75 scholarships as does every MAC school). In those 14 games, the Falcons had a 1-13 record, the only victory coming against Southern Mississippi in 1979.

"Playing teams like Iowa State, Kentucky, Michigan State, Baylor and North Carolina is a two-sided sword," Stolz says. "Along with Miami our schedule has been by far the toughest in the MAC. Those games look good on our schedule to a recruit, but it is tough to instill a winning attitude and build momentum.

"For example, last year our game with Baylor did us no good. We played far away from home, lost badly, got beat up and did not bring home much of a guarantee.

"I thought the Michigan State game was good for us because it was nearby, and we did get a good guarantee. On the other hand, it took a lot out of us physically. We lost five starters in that game who were not able to play the next two weeks (a loss to Western Michigan and a tie with Miami). If we could schedule one game like that a year, particularly against a Big 10 team, I think it would be good for the program. But not two like Baylor and Michigan State in the same year."

Indeed, the effect of playing a big-time team has taken a toll on the Falcons. In Stolz' first five years, the Falcons were 3-7 against MAC opponents the week after playing a nonconference game against a major opponent. Without those losses, BG's 19-20-1 MAC record would move well above the .500 mark.

Stolz feels that another factor that has delayed the progress of his program is the improved caliber of the MAC from top to bottom. "The MAC has grown tremendously more competitive recently," Stolz says. "MAC football is a whole different ball game compared to a few years ago, and I think that is a fact that is hard for the old diehards to understand. The conference grew from six schools to ten with the addition of Northern Illinois, Ball State, Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan just before I came to Bowling Green.

"It used to be that if you beat Miami and won one or two other key games, you won the MAC. Then Central Michigan came in and became a dominant force, and Ball State won two championships in three years. The 1978 Ball State team was the best MAC team I've ever seen. I don't think the old MAC schools realized how strong the newcomers were going to be."

Another factor that has hindered BGSU in recent years has been the changeover in the leadership of the administration. "We have had three University presidents and four athletic directors in five years," Stolz says. "They have all been different, making continuity difficult. We need stability, and hopefully will have it now with Dr. Olscamp and Jack Gregory."

Stolz feels the future is bright for Bowling Green football, though he is concerned about the MAC's ability to return to Division I-A. "From a recruiting standpoint, I feel it is important for use to get back to I-A. We will still get the run-of-the-mill MAC player, but if we are I-AA, it will be more difficult to keep the top MAC players in Ohio. We will lose more of them to out-of-state schools like West Virginia and Kentucky.

"However, MAC football will survive and will be a very good, competitive brand of football. At Bowling Green, we have one of the best stadiums in the conference; we play an attractive schedule; Bowling Green has an outstanding academic reputation and a great football tradition. All of those things make BG easy to recruit to."

Stolz voices some concern with a new commissioner of the MAC coming in to replace Fred Jacoby who will be leaving later this fall to become the Southwest Conference Commissioner. "Fred has made a great effort to keep us in Division I-A. I like our direction as an institution, but the future direction will be determined by the conference's I-A or I-AA status."

Even the sound of the door closing is by design.

Our doors speak well of the rest of our car. But their tight, solid sound is no accident.

Before we begin building the car, we engineer the best way to assemble it. Piece by piece.

Doors, trunk and hood fit the body with close tolerances all around. We align hinges and latches to work freely.

Window glass is held snug. And runs in the window channels smoothly. Triple rubber door seals help reduce outside sounds and wind noise. We've improved the insulation throughout the car.

The Honda Accord 4-Door Sedan is not only quieter, it's also roomier and more comfortable. You'll find it rides and handles better.

And while its many luxurious features are impressive, they are standard equipment. Like cruise control and variable-assist power steering, to name but two.

Honda's simple philosophy of building cars that work the way they were designed to work has made Honda number one in owner loyalty among all leading import cars*.

It has helped Honda cars retain a high resale value, among the best in the automotive industry.

You can fully appreciate how a Honda is made the next time you're in a Honda showroom.

BGSU Prepares Administrators for Nursing Home Industry

by Cliff Boutelle, Public Relations Director

As the number of Americans reaching their "golden years" continues to mushroom, more and more attention is being turned to the nursing home industry.

Not only are nursing homes increasing across the country, but the care provided senior residents in those homes is improving. "The trend in the nursing home industry is total health care, not just custodial," says Dr. John Hiltner, director of the gerontology program at Bowling Green State University.

Nursing homes are shedding the image of being a seniors dumping ground, according to Hiltner. The industry is getting much larger as more people reach old age and are in a position to demand the wide range of services that many homes are now offering; indeed must offer if they are to remain competitive.

And the pivotal figure in the industry is turning out to be the nursing home administrator, who is increasingly becoming a more highly trained individual charged with the care of hundreds of senior citizens.

Hiltner calls nursing home administration "an emerging profession" and at Bowling Green has developed the state's first program that will qualify students to take the state licensing examination immediately upon graduation.

At one time regulations were minimal and anyone could be a nursing home administrator.

But all that started to change in the early 1970s. The Ohio Board of Examiners of Nursing Home Administrators, part of the state Department of Health, began raising the standards for administrators to the point where Ohio now has one of the strictest sets of licensing regulations in the country.

In 1980 a regulation went into effect requiring new administrators to have a bachelor's degree. In addition, before a person can take the administrator's examination, he or she must have had an internship, the length depending upon the kind of academic training the person had.

However, there is still one regulation that discourages a number of people from becoming administrators. Prospective administrators are required to enroll in a short course preparing them to take the state licensing examination. In other words, even if a person has a bachelor's degree, he or she still must enroll in the short course before taking the examination.

But, thanks to Hiltner's efforts, Bowling Green students do not have to enroll in that short course in order to take the state examination.

Recognizing that the regulation tended to discourage some students from becoming administrators, Hiltner began working in 1977 with the Board of Examiners to determine whether students, by nature of their academic training, must be prepared enough to take the examination immediately upon graduation without having to enroll in the short course.

In time Bowling Green revised its gerontology curriculum and gained the Board of Examiners approval, and a year ago students began taking the licensing examination immediately after graduating.

Since then, 10 Bowling Green graduates have taken the examination.

The gerontology program at Bowling Green is offered by the College of Health and Community Services with support from the College of Business Administration. Majors take a blend of aging and business courses.

To meet the internship requirements, an integral part of the Bowling Green program, Hiltner has developed a number of working relationships with nursing home administrators in northwest Ohio so that Bowling Green students can gain some practical experience in the industry.

Bowling Green students can be found in all three segments of the industry, including those homes that are operated on a profit basis, by far the largest segment of the industry; those homes that are operated through a charity, and homes that are operated by counties.

The internships also give prospective employers an opportunity to see the students at work which can be an advantage when it comes to getting a job, Hiltner noted.

"The prospects for employment for nursing home administrators have never been better," says Hiltner, who sees the job picture becoming even more brighter in the future.

Hiltner says that only five percent of the elderly across the country are living in nursing homes, but adds that the number will get larger even though the percentage may drop. "There is a greater number of older people looking for the kinds of services a nursing home can offer," he explained.

As the number of homes increase, Hiltner says there will also be improvements in quality. "It's going to become a highly competitive business, and the homes providing the greater variety of services are simply going to force the poorer quality homes out of business. It's already happening."

Bowling Green has nearly 20 students in its program, and Hiltner says the number increases each year as incoming freshmen declare their interest in the gerontology major. Hiltner said it has been unusual for an incoming freshman to declare a gerontology major because young people generally do not think about working with the elderly. But that seems to be changing. "Several freshmen in the past several years have started out in gerontology," he said.

In the past, a student usually became interested in gerontology after being on campus a year or two, but now there seems to be a greater awareness among the young of older people, their care and needs. It's a good sign, Hiltner said.

Falcon Club Supports BGSU Athletics

The Bowling Green Athletic Department depends on the Falcon Club to raise more than $100,000 annually. Sixty-five percent of the undesignated Falcon Club gifts are turned over to the University to provide financial assistance in funding athletic grants-in-aid. Twenty-five percent of the undesignated gifts are used for helping to recruit prospective student-athletes. The remaining 10 percent supports the athletic equipment and facilities budget, helping Bowling Green to maintain its athletic physical plant as one of the best in the Mid-American Conference.

Membership in the Falcon Club offers the Bowling Green athletic booster an invitation to luncheons, post-game parties, preferred parking at the football, basketball and hockey games, golf outings, and many other social activities.

Please take time to study the information below, and if you would like further information, call the Falcon Club offices which are located right here in the west side of the stadium. Director of Athletic Development Jim Harris and secretary Jan Kiehl are there to serve you.

50-50 Drawing

One of the most popular money-raising techniques employed by the Falcon Club is the 50-50 drawing at each football, basketball and hockey game. All Falcon fans are invited to participate in today's 50-50 drawing.

Tickets are $1.00 each and may be purchased on either side of the stadium from Falcon Club members. The winner of the drawing will be announced during the third quarter, and will take home half the money that was taken in today. The other half goes to the grant-in-aid fund to support all varsity sports at Bowling Green.

The Falcon Clubhouse, located on the west side of the stadium, is the site of many Falcon Club events.

Dear Falcon Fan:

We share with you an enthusiastic desire for winning athletics at Bowling Green. In order to sustain a winning program, however, we must meet the financial challenges of athletic excellence.

Falcon Club membership offers you an opportunity to get behind our teams and coaches. Falcon Club donations have been the salvation of our program, and to win in 1982 will require a supreme Falcon Club effort.

I am interested in learning more about the Falcon Club and its activities.

Falcon Soccer Team Opens Season Wednesday

Coach Gary Palmisano's Falcon soccer team will be opening its 1982 season next Wednesday against Findlay College. The match begins at 3:30 p.m. at Cochrane Field which is between the football stadium and the Ice Arena tennis courts.

As he enters his fifth season as head coach, Palmisano is optimistic that the 1982 team will be his best. "We have a tremendous amount of potential, more than in any of my previous years," Palmisano says. "We have more team speed, our goaltending should be strong, and we have excellent depth up front."

Fourteen returning lettermen from last year's 11-7-1 team and four top newcomers form the nucleus of the team. The only holes in the line-up are a lack of depth at midfield and a question mark at the center back position. "It is important for our midfielders to control the tempo of the game," Palmisano says. "For us to play to our potential, we need to have the midfielders come through for us."

Palmisano has set some lofty goals for his team, winning 15 games (last year's total of 11 is the school record), finishing among the top three in the Mideast, finishing first in the Ohio rankings (ahead of traditional powers Cleveland State and Akron), and receiving a berth to the NCAA tournament (BG was selected in 1972 and 1973, but not since then).

Those are all realistic goals," Palmisano says, "because we have the best blend of experience, maturity and enthusiasm since I've been coach here."

Quality goalkeeping is a prerequisite for any top soccer club, and Palmisano feels he has two excellent keepers in senior Joe Koury and sophomore Kim Bucher. Koury has started for three years and holds many BGSU records, but he is being pushed hard by Bucher who was his back-up last fall.

Senior sweeper back Charlie Thomas anchors the Falcons' backline. Junior Bart Markel and sophomore Pat Kenney are the leading candidates to start at the wingback positions. Either sophomore Joe Barros or Brian Yeardley will start at center back. Yeardley is a transfer from Miami University. He started for the Redskins as a freshman last year, and transferred to BGSU when Miami dropped soccer.

Junior Neil Ridgway set a single season Bowling Green scoring record last fall and returns to lead the midfielders. Ridgway totaled 29 points last year on 12 goals and five assists. Senior Archie Edgar and sophomore Drew Dawson are expected to start alongside Ridgway. The depth at midfield is suspect, but in sophomore Kurt Davis and junior Mike Miller, Palmisano feels he has two players who are capable of doing the job. Freshman Bill Baxter also shows some promise.

Depth is not a problem up front. "We have seven quality strikers who we can use," Palmisano says. "We need to capitalize on our opportunities and get more consistent scoring, but now we have the depth to substitute frequently if needed."

Leading the striker contingent are seniors Don Popp and Bob Theophilus. They ranked two-three on the team in scoring last year behind Ridgway. Popp had 10 goals and four assists for 24 points. Others who will battle for playing time up front are juniors Mladen Medancic and Bill Roberts, sophomores Steve Flanagan and Tod Johnson, and freshman Mark Jackson.

The Falcons have been working out for almost two weeks and played an exhibition game against Western Ontario University this morning. Wednesday's game with Findlay is the first of 18 for the season. BG will host Central Michigan next Saturday at 2:00 p.m. in the second game of the season. The complete schedule for the season appears on page 11 of this program.

MAC Champion Returns To California Bowl

The second annual California Bowl, pitting the Mid-American Conference Champion against the Pacific Coast Athletic Association (PCAA) Champion, will be held on Saturday, December 18, in Fresno, California.

The renewal of the California Bowl will have a hard time matching the excitement of last year's inaugural event. Heavily-favored San Jose State, the PCAA Champion, rallied to overtake MAC Champion Toledo in the game's final minute, but Toledo came right back to win the game, 27-25, on a field goal in the final seconds.

This year's spectacle again will be televised throughout the nation by the Mizlou Television Network and it will also be aired on ESPN. Last year's game was witnessed by a television audience of over 5 million people.

The California Bowl, sponsored by the Greater San Joaquin Valley Sports Association, is played in Fresno State's new 30,000 seat stadium. The "closed end" bowl agreement between the MAC and the PCAA is one of only two such bowl pacts linking participants from specific conferences. The other is the Rose Bowl.

The football game caps a spectacular week of cultural and sporting activities that are designed to include people from all over the San Joaquin Valley as well as areas served by the MAC and the PCAA. Valley Children's Hospital in Fresno is a direct beneficiary of the California Bowl.

San Jose is one of the seven football-playing members of the PCAA. The others are Cal State Long Beach who Bowling Green will play in Anaheim Stadium this November 20, Cal State Fullerton, Fresno State, Pacific, Utah State, and the newest member of the PCAA, Nevada-Las Vegas.

This year's game will be the third meeting between Bowling Green and Long Beach. The 49ers won both of the previous games with last minute rallies, edging the Falcons, 29-28 in Anaheim, and 23-21 here at Perry Field two years ago.

National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame

Since the College Football Hall of Fame opened in August 1978, it has appealed to people of all ages with just about every interest imaginable . . . people who like movies, sports, computer games, American history, modern museums, great athletes, colorful displays, nostalgia, memorabilia, stirring speeches, cheerleaders, marching bands, Saturday afternoons in the fall and college football.

When the Hall of Fame was dedicated in August 1978, "Red" Blaik was the keynote speaker. He spoke to the crowd on behalf of all Hall of Famers and said, "This is the best happening in college football since the legalization of the forward pass." His comment exemplifies the excitement that awaits college football fans who visit the shrine and the experience that already has been enjoyed by thousands.

The College Football Hall of Fame is not only a place to see, learn and participate in the history of football, but a place to get to know the game as it is today. From its one-eighth mile long Time Tunnel, which traces the 2,000-year development of the game from ancient Greece to the present in more than 30 time capsules, to the Hall of Fame Room where each of the 478 Hall of Famers are honored, to its futuristic use of computer terminals that allow the visitor to match wits with the great coaches or to call up the biographies of every Hall of Famer, the museum can and does bring the total college football experience to life. Its personalized approach and action-oriented attractions have intrigued all who have visited. As "Sleepy" Jim Crowley, one of the Notre Dame Four Horsemen, simply said, "This Hall of Fame is not in the telling or talking about, it's in the seeing."

Galbreath Field

The 11,000-seat stadium is adjacent to the College Football Hall of Fame at Kings Island, Ohio.

John W. Galbreath, an Ohio sportsman-industrialist, donated funds for the project which includes locker-room facilities, a heated and enclosed press box and lighting suitable for color television broadcasting. The field is available for the playing of college and high school football and soccer and is also the first stadium in the United States that includes field dimensions for rugby football.

Galbreath Field was dedicated on August 2, 1981. The first intercollegiate game was played on September 12, 1981, when the University of Dayton defeated Ashland College, 17-0.
